

Discussion questions

1. Sophie Hall is a magazine fact checker living in New York. Early in the film, her boss poses the rhetorical question “I guess people wanna believe in true love, don't they?”

In your opinion, does “true love” really exist? Why or why not?

2. Both Sophie and her fiancé, Victor, are passionate people – she about writing and he about good food and wine. However, it quickly becomes clear that they do not share one another's passions.

Does the success of a romantic relationship depend upon a couple's shared interests/passions? Give reasons to support your answer.
